THE VERDUGO ROAD ELECTRIC RAILWAY.

In order to let the people know exactly what is the condition of affairs in regard to this road, the committee called a meeting for last Thursday evening at Odd Fellows hall and made a full report. There was a fair attendance, principally of subscribers to the bonus fund. The committee reported that practically no progress had been made during the past six weeks, but that much had been accomplished since the last meeting. The full amount of bonus required had been subscribed and considerable of it had been paid into the Bank of Glendale, the rest being available practically at call. In addition to this the matter of right of way had been arranged satisfactorily with Mr. Glassell. The rights of way, except two or three small pieces, had been secured all along the route. Practically all of the delay has been caused by the difficulty found in getting Mr. Hawes to put up the amount of money he promised, every attempt to get him to do so being met by the tacking on of new conditions. The right of way trouble with Mr. Glassell, which Mr. Hawes had promised to arrange from the beginning, had to be fixed up by ten of the citizens of Glendale who assumed the burden of paying Mr. Glassell in addition to contributing their share of bonus money. Mr. Hawes first wanted a five cent fare to his "Sagamore" tract; then his proposition for a seven and a half cent fare was practically agreed to by the railroad people. In connection with this the committee presented the following letters:

Los Angeles, Dec. 16, 1907.
Messrs. Goode and Blackburn,
Glendale Railroad Committee,
Glendale, Cal.

Referring to your suggestion of a rate amounting to $3.00 for 52 rides to the point where the "Sagamore" office is located:

At the present location of the office, the railroad company will probably make a cut. For that and other reasons, we intend to move the office to the street next north of the present location of said office.

The said next street will be named Eleventh street, and will be approximately 800 feet south of the North line of our property.

We will accept the above mentioned rate to the said Eleventh street on the following conditions: That the regular cash fare to the same point from the center of Los Angeles shall not exceed ten cents; that the company agrees to stop its cars to take on or let off passengers at each of the streets which we propose to establish on the track.

Yours very truly,
ARTHUR G. HAWES.

January 17th, 1908.
Los Angeles Railway Company,
Los Angeles, California.
Gentlemen:—Referring to the proposed electric line to Glendale:

We offer to convey to you a right of way for said line over the west 34 feet of our property, Lot 46 of Watts Subdivision and that parcel allotted to Orr Harolson in Case No. 1621 by the Los Angeles Superior Court, the said conveyance to contain conditions mutually agreed upon.

We also agree to pay you the sum of Eleven Thousand Dollars ($11,000.00), the said payment, however, to be made upon each of the following conditions:

1. That the construction of said line be commenced within sixty days from the date hereof;

2. That the said $11,000.00 will become due and payable six months from this date if the said line shall have been completed and be in regular operation. If said line be not then completed and in regular operation, the said payment shall become due when it is completed and in regular operation, provided, however, that we shall be released from our obligation to pay said sum, or any part thereof, if the said line be not completed and in regular operation within ten months from the date of this letter. Time is of the essence of this agreement.

3. That in consideration of said payment, you will agree that, for five years from the date of completion of said line, the cars operated thereon shall be run through from some point south of Third Street in Los Angeles to the Glendale terminus, carrying passengers between said points without requiring them to change from one car to another; and that during the same period you will maintain, between a point 764.33 feet from the North end of the right of way conveyed by aforesaid deed and the Los Angeles terminus (which shall be South of Third Street), two regular commutation rates of fare, one amounting to 52 rides for $5.00 and the other to 30 rides for $2.50, and that you will keep on sale commutation books containing tickets representing said rates—the books representing the 52 ride rate to be used by the individual purchaser within 30 days after its purchase, and the books representing the 30 ride rate to be used by the purchaser and his family within 90 days after its purchase; and that during the same period the regular cash fare between aforesaid points shall not exceed ten cents—passengers paying said cash fare to have all of the transfer privileges accorded to other patrons of the Los Angeles Railway Company in the City of Los Angeles; also that at our request you will join us in executing a map dedicating to public use seven streets across said right of way; also that during all of aforesaid five years you will cause the cars operated on said line to stop for the purpose of taking on or discharging passengers at those streets intersecting said right of way, the center lines of which will be approximately 20, 753.16, 1463.16 and 2368.16 feet from the South end of the right of way conveyed by aforesaid deed.

We will pay said money with the understanding that you will guarantee the carrying out of each of the foregoing conditions, whether you retain control of said line or transfer such control to another, and that your receipt of the said money will be upon each of the foregoing conditions subsequent. This offer will not remain in force after the 22nd inst. unless you have theretofore notified us of its acceptance.

Yours truly,
(Signed) ARTHUR L. HAWES,
VALENTINE PEYTON.

With one exception these conditions have been acceded to by the representatives of Mr. Huntington, and it is believed that upon the return of that gentleman to Los Angeles, which is expected at a very early date, this one will be complied with.

The agreement on the part of the railroad company to build the road to "B" street, Glendale, is in the possession of the Bank of Glendale. This is made contingent upon the payment of a bonus of $17,500, which, as previously stated, has been provided for. Upon this report being heard, together with the statement made by the committee that here are very excellent reasons for believing that the railroad company expects to build this road and that very soon, the meeting passed a resolution of confidence in and thanks to the committee for its good work, and extended their time 30 days longer, or until Thursday evening, April 2d, when another meeting will be held in the same place and a further report received.

And that the city attorney be instructed to prepare such contract and bonds in accordance herewith.

MESSICK-SENG.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. McCombs, on Mary street, was the scene of a quiet wedding Tuesday evening, when their niece, Miss Mabelle Seng was married to Gurtha R. Messick, of Los Angeles.

The pretty ring ceremony was performed at eight o'clock, by the Rev. Burton, of the Glendale Methodist church. The ceremony was witnessed by relatives only. Mr. and Mrs. Messick left for a brief wedding trip, after which they will be at home at Second and Mary streets, Glendale.

THE POSTOFFICE LOCATION.

Mr. W. A. Anderson, who made a proposition to the postoffice department to erect a building upon his lot on Fourth street opposite the Sanitarium, and furnish quarters in the same for postoffice purposes, has been informed by the department that his offer has been accepted. If the terms of the lease proposed to be given by the government are satisfactory to Mr. Anderson, he will proceed very soon to erect the building. This would seem to settle for some time to come, the vexed and vexing question of a site for the Glendale postoffice.

The stringency of the law in regard to intoxicants in the state of Georgia is such that even the use of wine for the holy communion is impossible without an infraction of the statutes. This is precisely the case with the ordinance just adopted in Glendale.

Mr. William Jennings Bryan declares that the trusts are spending money to prevent his nomination. A horrid example of inexcusable extravagance!

Oh pity the trust
Which thinks it must
In this way squander pelf;
For it might as well
Sit still a spell
And see him beat himself!

The Supervisors and That $5000 Donation

The action of the Board of Supervisors of this county in donating $5000 toward the fund to be expended in providing entertainment for the sailors of Admiral Evans' fleet is probably illegal and certainly inexcusable from any point of view that we can imagine.

If individuals wish to spend their money in this manner, it is clearly their privilege to do so; but there is no reason why money should be taken from the treasury of the county for this purpose. The money in the county treasury has been contributed by the taxpayers of the county for legitimate purposes and not for any such unnecessary object as this spectacular splurge, which will be a wholesale example of the truth of the old axiom about the alacrity with which money is parted from the man of unwisdom.

The Coming Municipal Election

In April the citizens of Glendale elect a new board of city trustees and other municipal officers. It should be unnecessary to say that it will be an event of great importance to our young city.

During the two years of our corporate existence we have made rapid progress toward the time when Glendale will be a city indeed. Possessing rare natural advantages, it seems to be self evident that in a few years our city will occupy a place in the first class among the suburban towns adjacent to the wonderful metropolis of Southern California. We do not believe that any act of our people can prevent this consummation; but we can retard it. Not only can we retard it, but we can make the intervening years between the attainment of that high object and the present a period of strife and bitterness.

If we do this, it will be brought about by the persistent and consistent action of the people in our midst, in different quarters of the city, who believe that their way is the only right way to manage municipal affairs. At this time we do not know who will be candidates for the places of trustee, and our comments are general and not personal.

It requires a considerable amount of civic patriotism to induce a good man to accept the thankless position of membership in the governing board of the city. Many of our citizens have declared that they would not accept the place; but it is noticeable that some of them apparently stand ready to make it unpleasant for anyone in that position who performs any act contrary to their ideas.

If some of these citizens could be put in positions of responsibility, it would go far toward teaching them the wisdom of seasoning judgment with charity.

The board of trustees whose term is now expiring, are all honorable men who have dealt conscientiously with all public matters that have come before them. They have made but few mistakes; probably no more than would have been made by any other men under similar circumstances; fewer we believe than would have been made by the small clique that constitutes their principal detractors. If we elect a new board whose personnel averages as well, we shall be fortunate.

In a short time it will be in order to make up one or more tickets, and upon this subject we wish to say one or two things to the people at this early stage of the game.

First. Do not support anyone who exhibits any great anxiety to have himself elected; such anxiety should render anyone an object of suspicion as it indicates either that he has some selfish end in view, or that he values himself too highly and is too much in love with his own opinions to permit of his being a good public servant.

Next, we should look with similar suspicion upon any clique that would favor one section at the expense of the rest, or that considers any one issue paramount.

The work of our city in the near future will be along many lines of development and we have no room for either schemers or mere theorists in places of responsibility.

We have heard rumors to the effect that certain men have already made a deal with a manipulator of a block of voters who are more or less susceptible to influence on election day. If such is the case, good citizens may well oppose their ticket on general principles. "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty" and other things.

Get ready to vote.

The Passing of a Sect

They have been having evangelistic services in the Friends church at Whittier.

Now to a few who are uninformed, it may be advisable to explain that the "Friends" are the "Quakers," of whom William Penn was an illustrious example. He and his followers came over to Pennsylvania, made treaties with the Indians which they scrupulously kept, purchased territory, founded a state and builded the Quaker City, Philadelphia. They were the originals of the "simple life;" one of the tenets of their faith was absolute simplicity in language and in dress. The plain "yes" and "no" were sufficient for affirmation and negation. Children were not permitted to add anything thereto for "manners" sake. The days of the week were designated as "First" day, "Second" day, etc., beginning with Sunday; the common names, being of heathen origin, were not esteemed worthy of use. They believed in the doctrine of non-resistance and would not bear arms. There were many things they did not believe in which pass current with the rest of the world. They did not, in the time of William Penn, believe in evangelizing and practiced to but a very limited extent "the foolishness of preaching." They did not believe it right to sing, or dance, or to play upon instruments of music.

But by and bye schisms occurred in the organization (they did not call it a church) and branches put forth from the original stock that did not entirely believe in so much of the "simple life," and so at Whittier they are having "evangelistic meetings." And we have no doubt but that the Whittier Friends have an organ in the church and maybe a choir, and the preacher waits not for the spirit to impel him to preach, but preaches!

But yet not all have drifted away from the simple faith of the fathers. In Philadelphia there is an old "meeting house" where the "Orthodox" Friends meet as they have met for over a hundred years and all the simplicity of the days of Penn may be seen in costume and service and heard in speech. And there is a little

"meeting house" among the Chester county hills that we know of where a few, a very few, of the faithful meet as they did in the days of our boyhood and serve God with few words and solemn countenance. If no one is "inspired" to speak, there is no speaking; if the spirit calls upon one to audibly voice a prayer, no prayer is said, and there is no music save that from the innumerable still, small voices of bird and insect world outside. But the place is filled with the spirit of worship, and the silent prayers ascend from the handful of worshippers to the heavens that bend above.

These Quaker communities were notably free from scandal; their members were rarely parties to a suit at law, and in every manner except in their failure to take an active part in the affairs of state, they stand for all that is good in citizenship. But they have been "reformed" nearly out of existence and the offshoots from the Orthodox root of the faith differ in only minor particulars from the rest of the world.

The followers of George Fox and William Penn have almost passed into history; the remnant are an anomaly in the strenuous life of the twentieth century; the "meeting house" has become a church; the "inspired" speaker has been supplanted by the salaried preacher and the plain bonnet of the Quaker maiden is succeeded by the modern hat of gaudy hue.

No more the simple life allures
The complex minds of men;
Yet in its passing still endures,
Transmuted, so that time secures
Cleared of its dross, the gold again!

The special offering goes to help the work in India, China, Japan, Manila and South America.

Long after price is forgotten, the memory of Quality remains; neither loud talk nor large type nor low prices can long make headway against downright merit in what you buy. Extravagant assertions, boastful claims or a false notion of economy may now and then distract the housewife's attention, but the recollection of satisfaction once enjoyed, because of the excellence of an article, finally overcomes and outweighs all other considerations. This is the goal toward which we strive. Our ambition is to have the mere fact that anything is purchased from Shaver Bros. exemplify the above doctrine.

Because she pulled the tail of a huge pet dog just once too often, sweet little Dorris Moyse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George U. Moyse, was severely bitten on the face while playing Tuesday. The dog, an old family pet supposed to be possessed of an unlimited amount of good nature and patience, turned suddenly and buried his teeth in the little face, the upper jaw closing over the right eye and the lower teeth sinking in under the chin. The child was borne to the home of her grandparents next door, as her mother is ill, and there was attended by Dr. Bryant. By Thursday, the swelling had so reduced that the eyeball was visible and the patient had recovered from the shock. That little Dorris escaped a more terrible injury is regarded as a miracle, for the beast was a huge one and he had the entire right side of the little face in his mouth.

On Tuesday the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church met in the home of Mrs. McCoy on Third and Adams. Election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: Mrs. McCoy, President; Mrs. Thomas Ogg, Vice-President; Mrs. Frank Albright, Secretary, and Mrs. Sophia Galloway, Treasurer.

Important business matters such as new sidewalks, a Sunday school room addition for the church and the establishment of a "Reserve Fund" to be used in event of building of a new church, were taken up.

Mrs. Daniel Campbell, who for the past two years has so conscientiously and tactfully discharged her duties as president of the society, swelling the membership by her earnest efforts, and inaugurating many new and important matters, gave one of the little noble and uplifting heart-to-heart talks which have so endeared her to the society members. In closing she presented to each of her retiring officers a bouquet of violets. One new member was admitted. Plans were made for a social affair to be given on St. Patrick's Day. During a pleasant social hour cake, nuts and tea were served. There was a good attendance.

END OF A PROMISING YOUNG LIFE, WILL FANSET.

As announced in last week's issue of the News, Will Fanset, the younger son of our postmaster, Asa V. Fanset, was at the hospital in a serious condition after having undergone an operation for appendicitis. It was hoped at the time we went to press that his recovery was only a matter of time. His friends were shocked, however, to learn on Saturday last that his case was considered hopeless; and early Sunday morning he passed away, after an illness of less than a week. Death could scarcely have chosen for a victim any member of our community who was apparently more unlikely to be called away by the silent messenger; and his taking off was a shock not only to his relatives and intimates, but to many others who knew him as a young man full of the spirit of youth and vigor.

Funeral services were held at the home of his parents on Fourth street east of Verdugo Road at two o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, conducted by Revs. Burton and Norton of the Methodist church. The pallbearers were fellow members of the Good Templars lodge, of which the deceased was chief templar. The largest funeral procession ever seen in our valley followed the remains to Forest Lawn Cemetery, where interment was made.

The services at the cemetery were conducted by the members of the Order of Good Templars, the Hon. Theodore Kanouse, a former resident of our valley, assisting. After the ceremony according to the ritual had been concluded, the Rev. C. R. Norton made a few remarks of an eulogistic character with a special appeal to the young people present to work more earnestly for the cause represented by their Order. The floral offerings were beautiful and an express wagon was required to carry the great number of appropriate pieces contributed by friends as expressive of their esteem for the dead and of sympathy for his family.

CONCERNING REGISTRATION.

The new registration of all voters in the State, which is required every alternate year, is now being made. It will not be completed until within forty days of the November election. The old register holds good until the new one is completed. All voters, therefore, who are already registered within the city of Glendale, are entitled to vote at the coming municipal election and at the primary election in May without registering. A new registration is necessary for all newcomers, however, and every voter must register again whose name has not been put on the registration roll since January of this year, in order to be entitled to vote at the general election in November.

Registration for the municipal election will close twenty-five days before election. There are, therefore, only about ten days left in which to register for that election. J. C. Sherer, at the News office, is deputy registration clerk.

HAME WE ADDED COUNTERFEIT.

ING TO OUR NEW INDUSTRIES?

A slight column of smoke arising from the top of the hill belonging to Mr. Woodberry, on Verdugo Road, above First street, one day this week, attracted that gentleman's attention and he steered his automobile up to the top of the elevation sometime afterwards to investigate. He found the remains of a small fire, and nearly a quantity of solder and a plaster of Paris die with the impression of a twenty-five cent piece. The United States authorities have been informed of the suspicious find and an investigation is being made. A number of counterfeit ten-cent pieces are in circulation hereabouts; they appear to be made by welding together two impressed thin-beaten outside of silver over a composition filling. They have a genuine appearance, but have a tendency to split on the edges.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY ENTERTAINMENT.

The Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church will give on St. Patrick's day, Tuesday, March 17th, at the residence of Rev. S. L. ### CIVICS.

Editor News:

I am very glad if what I wrote concerning Clean-Up Day was helpful to our city as the ladies of the Thursday Afternoon Club appear to think, and am grateful for their appreciation. I have myself noticed an improvement, though I had not thought to make any connection between it and my letter. For one thing it seems to me that not so much loose paper is now thrown into the streets as formerly. I notice some lots being plowed and seeded. The ladies at Hollywood are proposing to have plowed and sowed to barley so far as they can all unimproved lots. They also are offering prizes for a flower show to be held later in the season, and are accepting gifts of seeds and are giving out seeds on certain conditions to applicants who will compete on that occasion. It occurs to me that prizes might well be offered for the largest collection of flowers, the best combination and arrangement of flowers, the best front yard, the best back yard, the best parkway planting, the best effect under the most unfavorable circumstances, etc. The school children might be encouraged to beautify the school grounds, and beautify the school rooms with potted plants and window gardens. It would cultivate taste and the general effect upon our town could not fail to be good. Our ladies and others can think it out. It seems as if some way might, could, would, should or ought to be found by which lots belonging to non-residents, or others who are careless, especially in the center of town might at least be kept clean of an overgrowth of tall noxious weed, and by which they might be kept clear of tin cans, bottles, paper and other unsightly dumping.

And tree planting is another important matter, but not so important as tree-tending when planted, till big enough to take care of themselves. What use is tree-planting if they must die within a year. Our State has passed a statute which cities may adopt or not as they choose, by which trees shall be planted and cared for by the city. This secures plan and uniformity of planting and keeps them alive so that the labor and expense are not lost. It also secures the cooperation of the unwilling and of the non-resident and is for the benefit of all. I do not know how this law is working out in practice where it has been adopted, but if there is time to investigate and the report is favorable, I should think it might be well to have the question of the adoption of this statute submitted to the voters at the next election.

It may hardly be necessary to mention it, but I should think it would be well if all our people would "boost" Glendale in their talk and in their writing as much as their consciences will allow. There may be this thing or that that we do not like. One objects to this or that thing that the city council or some official, or somebody else has or has not done. No doubt there are things now, and then that we are dissatisfied with, that provoke an unpleasant feeling. But where, in this wide world, can we go where we shall find all things to our liking. We can always find something to complain of and not without justice too, for this world is made up of imperfect people, some better and some worse than ourselves, but let us do all the "kicking" we have to do among ourselves at home, at the ballot box in our local discussions, but when we are away from home or speaking to strangers or liable to be overheard by them, let us speak well for Glendale, the choicest and best residence suburb of Los Angeles, and one bound to have more advantages and fewer disadvantages as we prosper and grow and get more experience in being a city.

EDGAR LEAVITT.

AT THE GLENDALE LIBRARY.

Especial thanks are due Mrs. Barrager for a generous contribution of books, one of the largest yet received, and a fine lot of magazines sent by her to the library.

Following are reviews of two of the new books just purchased:

"Roy and Ray in Mexico," by Mary Wright Plummer.

This handsomely printed and illustrated book is the most expensive one included in the first purchase of books made for the Glendale library and should prove attractive reading to younger borrowers, as it gives the scenes, incidents and experiences connected with the trip to Mexico of two children accompanied by their parents who explain all important points as they present themselves. The trip includes visits to a number of important Mexican cities, churches, museums, the great Mexican pyramid and also various excursions. The aspect of the country, life, manners, customs and occupations of the people are entertainingly described and some of the most interesting bits of Mexican history are related. The book is educational and instructive and contains the music of the "Mexican National Hymn" and "La Paloma."

"The Wood-Carver of 'Lympos," by M. E. Walter.

This is one of the later books claiming the attention of the reading public and is a story of a remote New England country district where "the yellow glory of the stagecoach still illumines some of the valley roads," and one catches glimpses of the homely, everyday life, manners, customs, peculiarities and vernacular of the country people, who live in those remote and undisturbed localities much as did their ancestors one hundred years ago. The story follows the suddenly maimed youthful woodcarver, of 'Lympos, gradually from helpless, hopeless, sacrilegious despair and rebellion, through the power of human kindness ministered unto him and his own thoughtful acts and power to give happiness by his artistic life-like creations in wood, to a happy knowledge of usefulness and a place of spiritual peace and rest. The attempt of a noble and purified character to atone for and rectify a sin committed in early life is pathetic and commendable. The glimpses of literature and travel are interesting and educational, while the truly religious fiber of the book place it rather above the ordinary novel.

SCIENCE NOTES.

Those interested in the "Martian problem" will find the first of a series of articles by Prof. Percival Lowell, on "Mars as the abode of life," in the November number of the Century Magazine. Mr. Lowell is an adept in the art of clear expression and lucidly expounds the great theory of Stellar and Planetary evolution in a most attractive style which holds the attention of the reader from the start.

Southern California Academy of Sciences, second notice. The following interesting astronomical paradox is taken from page 11 of the recently issued bulletin of this society:

Here is a little feathery comet, so attenuated that it does not dim the luster of the smallest stars when interposed between them and the eye, so inconsiderable in mass that it has eluded the attempt of any mathematician to weigh it; so that today no astronomer can tell whether the mass of Encke's comet is to be computed by tens, hundreds, thousands or millions of tons. Yet this seemingly almost imponderable member of our solar system, swinging in an ellipse reaching from Mercury to Jupiter, has been successfully employed in weighing the masses of those and the intervening planets.

Diatoms. One great advantage of nature-study is that it not only informs the mind, but that it imparts an additional charm and interest to life, something to which we can always turn for relief from the daily grind amid the sordid cares of life, with the assurance of fascinating entertainment and enlightenment. This is eminently true of Diatoms, which form the subject of an interesting paper by Miss Sarah P. Monks, of San Pedro, at page 12 of the bulletin, from which I transcribe the following extract: Diatoms are organisms having characteristics of both plants and animals. Unlike other plants they have the power of voluntary motion, and unlike most animals they possess chlorophyll, the green coloring principal of plants. They are microscopic. Zoologists look at them askance and botanists do not want them, but they are the pets of the microscopist, and well they deserve this honor, for they are among the most exquisitely beautiful objects in nature. When one is bitten with the diatom craze, the only hope is a microscope, the happy possessor of which looks forward to long delightful tramps with dip-net and bottles. Some of the mounted microscope slides of these little animalcules are so beautiful when viewed through the instrument that they are called "Oh, my" slides, from the inevitable exclamation which arises to the lips of the beholder.

All-inclusiveness of Science. At the December meeting of the Academy the subject for discussion was "Beautifying the City." Some question having arisen in the mind of a short-sighted person as to "what science had to do with beauty," the following reply was prepared and read from the platform, by Mr. Wm. H. Knight, the able vice-president of the academy. It is so good that it must be copied entire:

"What," is asked, "has science to do with beauty?" Certainly a pertinent and very proper question. The Academy of Sciences is organized for the purpose of promoting research in natural science and diffusing a knowledge of its truths. The question implies that the academy would best serve its purpose by keeping within its own sphere. But those who are familiar with the present trend of human thought and research, realize that the realm of pure science has so extended its borders in recent times that it has become all-inclusive in the scope of its investigations.

Just half a century ago that master-mind of a former generation, Herbert Spencer, put forth the first volume of his marvelous work, in which he classified and summed up all human knowledge, demonstrated the unity of Nature, and affirmed that all the varied phenomena of which the mind can take cognizance, may be reduced to an orderly scientific sequence, and is subject to the single and inviolable law of evolution. Thus every department of human inquiry, whether it be invisible atoms, or mighty suns wheeling in space, whether simple cells of protozoa, or the involved structure of anthropoid species, whether a co-operating colony of ants, or that complex social organism, a civilized state, whether the dawning mentality of a spider that plans where to spin its web, or the intellectual grasp of a thinker who, shackled to this little island-world flying helplessly through the fathomless abyss, yet stands erect, grapples with the problems of the universe, penetrates their deep mysteries, and proudly enrolls himself a spark of and a co-worker with, the infinite, I say that every phase of the myriad facts thus engaging our attention is classified and filed for reference in the archives of that wonderful museum—the Temple of Science. But reverting to the question "What has Science to do with Beauty?" We are reminded of the pregnant phrase of the French philosopher, Cousin, who discoursed of "the True, the Beautiful and the Good." Note how well it fits this occasion. The True—scientific facts, the basis of all knowledge. The Beautiful—form, color, proportion, all fundamentally dependent on scientific formulae. And the Good—that is the useful and altruistic, the part each one plays in serving others and making them happy.

Science is as the groundwork of a piece of rich tapestry. Beauty and utility are the interlacing threads of grace and beneficence, investing the matchless fabric with inexpressible charm.

The Academy of Sciences holds its regular monthly meeting at Symphony Hall, South Hill street, on the first Monday in each month, when some interesting subject is discussed by competent lecturers, illustrated generally by beautiful stereopticon views and in the interest of science and enlightenment extends a cordial welcome to strangers who may find it to their taste to attend. I was glad to see two Glendale friends at the last meeting, and can confidently recommend the academy to attention of all. X-RAY.

KEEP A WRITTEN ACCOUNT OF ALL YOUR EXPENDITURES

You know from experience that it is hard to save from your earnings, but it can be done if you set your heart and head in that direction.

The only way to do it is to keep an account of what you earn and what you spend.

The simplest way to keep this record is to have a bank account—deposit your money with this bank and pay all bills by check.

Your bank book and the returned checks are the record you want—they will tell the story of your money both earned and spent.

Now will be the proper time to begin, by opening an account with the Bank of Glendale.

PILGRIMAGE TO LOS ANGELES OASIS.

It was a merry party of prominent Masons and their wives of the valley who attended the initiation ceremonies and leap year dance given at the Shrine Auditorium in Los Angeles Saturday by Al Malaikah Daughters of Isis.

Mrs. D. H. Imler, Daughter of Isis, and Chief of the Sands, selected her caravan among the Nobles and their wives, and early Saturday evening departed on their march to the Oasis, over the burning sands. 'Tis said, upon good authority, that all of the members of the caravan departed and returned without mishap save one Noble, now a Daughter, who found the burning sands heated to the proper temperature. Finding the glitter of tinsel and costume most dazzling, he is now contemplating joining a slide show of one of the many circuses that wander the length and breadth of the United States.

The party consisted of Noble David H. Imler, Daughter Adelaide Imler; Noble Daniel Campbell, Daughter Margaret Campbell; Noble Joshua Andrews, Daughter Ethel Andrews; Noble Charles Parker, Daughter Amanda Parker; Noble John Parker, Daughter Jessie Parker; Noble Arthur Campbell, Daughter Eva Blain and Daughter Nellie McPeak.

At the close of the meeting an informal reception was tendered Mr. Wilson and wife.

PASSING OF A PIONEER JOURNALIST.

Robert Nixon, familiarly known as "Bob," editor for forty-six years of the Yreka Journal, is dead at the age of 78. He was a noted figure in the journalistic field upon the Pacific coast. He was a staunch Republican in politics, ready to jump into the ranks of his old time enemy, the Democratic party and wield his journalistic bludgeon with tremendous force, and then to jump out again when the contest was over, with no feeling of bitterness when defeated. He was the first newspaper man whose acquaintance the editor of this paper made in California, over thirty years ago, when he had already made himself a place among the country journalists of the State. His splendid militant spirit will be missed in the region where Shasta stands with perpetually snow-crowned summit, looking down upon the lower peaks and basined valleys of Siskiyou.

Peace to the spirit of the journalistic Nestor of the North!

TROUBLE AT SOUTH PASADENA.

Our sister city, South Pasadena, has troubles of its own and their similarity to some that occasionally vex Glendale makes them of special interest. Just at present they are stirred somewhat by the arrest of Mrs. Farr, proprietor of the Hotel Capitola, for the violation of their liquor ordinance. It seems that while the ordinance is very stringent, power is given to the board of trustees to grant permission to any hotel of twenty-five rooms or more, to dispense liquors with meals. The people most interested in the enforcement of the ordinance, appointed a committee of sixteen to attend to it, with the result of Mrs. Farr's arrest. She was guilty clearly enough as far as the letter of the law is concerned, but the thing that causes much comment and a good deal of friction, is the fact that the Raymond Hotel, within the limits of the same balliwick, has not been disturbed, although it continues to serve strong drink regularly. We shall watch the trouble with interest and report it impartially.

RUNAWAY BREAKS UP FUNERAL PROCESSION.

On Tuesday last, as the long funeral procession following the remains of the late Will Fanset to Forest Lawn Cemetery, was passing through Tropico, an unattached horse with work harness on and heavy swinging traces hitting him at every jump, dashed out of Mr. Randolph's place on the corner of Ninth street at a mad gallop as the long line of carriages passed by. Swinging through the procession he struck the hind wheel of one buggy, putting it out of service, but fortunately not upsetting it. Passing along he dashed through the line two or three times again and collided with the buggy of Mr. I. N. Stevenson of Pasadena, completely wrecking the two hind wheels and throwing Mr. Stevenson out, fortunately without injuring him seriously. The horse belonged to Mr. Randolph and was frightened while being watered.

CONCERT AT COUNTRY CLUB.

Notwithstanding the threatening weather and rainfall, there was a good attendance of members, their families and friends at the concert given by the club last Saturday evening. The vocal numbers given by singers, from the choir of Immanuel Presbyterian church, Los Angeles, were particularly enjoyable, as was indeed the whole program. After the concert the floor was cleared and dancing brought an enjoyable evening to an end.

FITZSIMMONS-LEMAR NUPTIALS.

The wedding, Monday morning, of Miss Emma Fitzsimmons of Los Angeles and Victor Lemar, which was solemnized at 8 o'clock, at St. Joseph's church, was among the season's most fashionable events. The edifice was decorated artistically with white enchanteress carnations and asparagus fern, the ceremony was performed beneath a large bell of white carnations and asparagus. The bride was attired in a white mousseline creation, lace trimmed and a long white tulle veil, fastened with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas and white tulle. The maid of honor, Miss Inez Gilbert, wore a handsome gown of white net over taffeta and carried pink sweet peas and pink tulle. The best man was Edward A. Fitzsimmons, a brother of the bride.

Marching in harmony with the low strains of Mendelssohn's, rendered by Miss Mary Schumacher, the bridal party moved down the aisle to the altar, kneeling beneath the bell. Rev. Father Raphael read the impressive wedding service. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served by Christopher, at the Fitzsimmons residence, on Maple avenue. The young couple left immediately for San Francisco and will make their home at Burbank, where they will receive their friends after April 4.

The bride has lived in Los Angeles nearly her whole life and has a wide circle of friends. The groom has made Burbank his home, where he is well and favorably known.

BULLETIN OF PROGRESS.

February has been marked with splendid growing weather all over California, combined with seasoned rains, which gives promise of heavy crops of all kinds during the coming season. It is believed by deciduous fruit growers that the seasonal weather during February insures heavy crops of peaches and apricots, which fruits have been in light bearing for the past three years.

From all of the affiliations of the California Promotion Committee in the United States and Europe reports have been received showing that there is greater interest in California among the people than ever before. The Eastern bureau of the committee in New York reports inquiries from large numbers desirous of investing in small farms in California, and these will take advantage of the five days' stop-over privilege on colonist tickets during the months of March and April.

Reports received indicate great interest in the coming of the fleet to San Francisco Bay, and the special excursion rates that will be in effect at that time will bring large numbers to the State.

There has been considerable activity in building, not only in San Fran-
